The Stanford Redbird Math Program

The Stanford Redbird Math program is designed around skill-specific lessons to help students build understanding through multiple forms of instruction and then apply their knowledge to practice items, games and word problems. Throughout the course, students are introduced to STEM themes and careers, making connections between the mathematics they are learning and authentic real-world applications. We are excited to offer this program again next year.

This year, we will have an afternoon session only (T, W, Th 3-3:30). The session is open to students in grades 2-8. The cost is $400 for the year. $200 is due when you register your child, and the balance is due by the first day of school in the fall.

Please register my child in the Stanford Redbird Math Program for 2019-20. My check for $200 is attached.
